Corbett OToole

Fading Scars:

My Queer Disability History

In this intimate talk, Corbett OToole shares her experiences as a pivotal figure in the disability rights movement who was present at the 504 Sit-in, the founding of the Center for Independent Living in Berkeley, and more. With humor, insight, and honesty, she frames these experiences in the context of dance, queer disability organizing, and being a disabled parent.

Wheelchair accessible, please refrain from strong scents. To request an ASL interpreter or other access, email amy.vidali@ucdenver.edu. Sponsored by the Faculty Assembly Disabilities Committee (DisC), the Disability as Diversity Initiative, and JFK Partners at AMC.
